Internationally recognized private school, St. Joseph Institute for the Deaf, in search of a full-time, energetic, passionate teacher of the deaf or speech-language pathologist to become a member of its Early Intervention team at the Indianapolis, Indiana location. The EI therapist

- develops good rapport with family members, allowing them to become advocates for their child;
- educates parents about child development, types and degrees of hearing loss and their relationship to communication development;
- assists parents in developing parenting skills and appropriate behavior management skills;
- educates parents in the area of effective strategies for the development of listening and spoken language communication in young children with hearing loss; and
- provides information to parents on child development, audition, language and speech development, and other topics.

Minimum of a Bachelor’s degree in Deaf Education, Communications Disorders, or in an appropriate related field. Master’s degree in Deaf Education or Speech-Language Pathology preferred. Must demonstrate a desire for ongoing professional development, including seeking Listening and Spoken Language Specialist Certification. LSL mentoring is available.

Qualified applicants should send cover letter and resume to mkrug@sjid.org.

The full-time position will begin in August 2018.

To find out more about St. Joseph Institute for the Deaf please visit https://sjid.org/.